Remedies of animal origin

The animal is a being with a spiritual inner world. It leads a life of its own and reacts to the environment from within. Through internalization, the animal - in contrast to plants - gains a certain independence in its shape from direct cosmic influences. Its shape remains relatively unaffected by the course of the year and is essentially up to preserved until death. In animals, temporal events are interwoven with the element of permanence. This results in what we can call its constitution. Changes and what remains are intimately linked in the constitution. What we find in the plant is its purpose. Now appears in the animal in a transformed form, as its fate. The purpose of the plant results in its signature, which leads to the therapeutic understanding of its healing properties. The fateful nature of the animal is expressed through its characteristics, from which we can discover clues for the healing properties of the corresponding veterinary medicines. The animal's characteristics show kinship relationships with humans, and these are important for our therapeutic understanding. The remedy from the animal world has a therapeutic effect primarily on constitutional aspects of humans. This area helps shape the physical body and, among other things, creates a certain temperamental imprint. Remedies of animal origin therefore have a special relationship to the etheric body of the human being, which is closely connected to the physical body. The world of insects in particular offers an incredible wealth of healing processes for humans. And they form an important part of the treasure trove of remedies in anthroposophical medicine. Together we will develop inner images of the various animals, discuss some pharmaceutical procedures and become aware of their use in therapy.

In this module, the therapeutic animalic substances which are going to understand in its typical nature, healing substances, pharmaceutical processes and therapeutic uses as in the followings.

Faculty of the Pharmaceutical Training

Albert Schmidli

He worked in a very responsible position in research and development for a major pharmaceutical company in Switzerland and Ireland. While he was preventing a huge chemical catastrophe in Ireland, on this threshold between life and death, he heard the call of the great initiate Christian Rosenkreuz. Following this inner call to serve Rudolf Steiner's medical impulse, he joined Weleda, one of the world's leading anthroposophic pharmaceutical companies.

It is legendary that the company, inspired by his thoughts, set up a new pharmaceutical research and development department for him on this occasion. In this he developed in close cooperation with anthroposophic doctors new anthroposophic medicines for over 25 years and was at the same time responsible for training doctors and pharmacists. 10 years ago he decided to live as a lecturer and teacher, which he and others recognized as a real calling. Since then he has been invited as a trainer to seminars worldwide to train anthroposophic doctors and pharmacists. Also trained as a Waldorf teacher himself, his lectures are not only infinitely profound but also full of humor. The inspiring experiments are admired not only by the participants but also by the lecturers in many countries.

Kan-anek Kaewthaweesab

He is an individual anthroposophic physician. His medical work originates from the mainstream medicine. He studied several types of complementary medicine and applied this to his clinical practice. He is the general secretary of the Anthroposophic Medicine Association Thailand (AMAT). He also serves as the organizer of anthroposophic medical training for physicians and therapists in Thailand. When he first encountered anthroposophic medicine, he suddenly realized the important of this medical approach as the medicine of humanity. He transformed his clinical practice by using the concept of anthroposophic medicine as the center of practice. He is also certified in Classical Homeopathy, Acupuncture, Naturopathy, and Spatial Dynamics. He teaches and lectures in the anthroposophic medical training in Thailand, Taiwan, Indonesia and Switzerland; The International Integrative Oncology Training in Thailand and India; The Asia-Pacific Anthroposophic Pharmacy Training.

Sompis Schmidli

She worked at Weleda AG Swizerland in Pharmaceutical and Cosmetics deparment for 22 years. She works as secretarty of Albert Schmidli and support anthroposophic phamaceutical training around the world for 5 years. She will support us during the training.
